

THE ECONOMIC IMPACT OF Quincy Municipal Airport (2J9)

Aviation's Benefit for Florida

Florida's economic well-being is intrinsically entwined with its vibrant airport system and its robust aviation industry. The aviation system in Florida allows the state to capitalize on an increasingly global marketplace. Aviation in Florida both sustains and leads economic growth and development. Airports in Florida are important economic engines, and support vital health, welfare, emergency, and safety-related services.

Florida's system of commercial service and general aviation airports are important to businesses throughout the state. Air travel is essential to tourism, Florida's number one industry. Protecting and investing in airports throughout Florida will support the aviation industry and the economic benefits described in this report. With continued support, Florida's dynamic aviation system will continue to provide a significant economic return in the years to come.

Quincy Municipal Airport

Located in Gadsden County, approximately two miles northeast of Quincy, Quincy Municipal Airport serves the general aviation needs of the local community. With its 2,964-foot runway, the airport can accommodate small general aviation aircraft. The airport's terminal is ideal for serving local users and those visiting the area.

Quincy Municipal Airport supports flight training, recreational/sport, and corporate/business activity. The airport also supports visiting aircraft stopping over for fuel. Aside from the Quincy Gadsden Airport Authority, which manages the airport and provides Fixed Based Operator services, the airport has four on-site tenants: Just Say Skydive, a skydiving operator; and Richard Hamilton Maintenance Service, Don Green Maintenance Service, and Hudson Aircraft, all of which are aircraft maintenance businesses. These tenants are critical to the airport's revenue streams and economic impact.

The annual economic impact of Quincy Municipal Airport is associated with direct impacts that come from its tenants/businesses located at the airport and construction projects that are undertaken by the airport or on-site businesses. Indirect impacts are associated with spending from visitors who arrive in the area via general aviation aircraft.
