

THE ECONOMIC IMPACT OF

Executive Airport (ORL)

Aviation's Benefit for Florida

Florida's economic well-being is intrinsically entwined with its vibrant airport system and its robust aviation industry. The aviation system in Florida allows the state to capitalize on an increasingly global marketplace. Aviation in Florida both sustains and leads economic growth and development. Airports in Florida are important economic engines, and support vital health, welfare, emergency, and safety-related services.

Florida's system of commercial service and general aviation airports are important to businesses throughout the state. Air travel is essential to tourism, Florida's number one industry. Protecting and investing in airports throughout Florida will support the aviation industry and the economic benefits described in this report. With continued support, Florida's dynamic aviation system will continue to provide a significant economic return in the years to come.

Executive Airport

Located in Orange County, three miles east of downtown Orlando, Executive Airport is a designated reliever airport to Orlando International Airport and serves the aviation needs of the metropolitan area. With its two intersecting runways, the longest of which is 6,004 feet, the airport can accommodate general aviation business jet aircraft. The airport's terminals are ideal for serving local users as well as those visiting the area.

Orlando's Executive Airport provides several services through their two fixed base operators, Sheltair Aviation Services and Showalter Flying Services. The airport primarily serves corporate/business activity but also serves a significant amount of flight training, medical air ambulance, and public safety helicopter activity. The airport also has an on-site U.S. Customs & Border Protection office. All of the airport's tenants and flight activities are important to the airport's revenue streams and economic impact.

The annual economic impact of Executive Airport is associated with direct impacts that come from tenants/businesses located at the airport and construction projects that are undertaken by the airport or by on-site businesses. Indirect impacts are associated with spending from visitors who arrive in the area via general aviation aircraft.
